CONTEMPT OF COURT FOR VIOLAT-ING THE STRIKE INJUNCTIONS.

Judge Woods Discussed the Various Issues Involved In the Cases at Great Length-The Defendants Held To Be Responsible-Violence During Strike.

Chicago, December 14.-"Guilty as charged," was the finding announced today by Federal Judge William A. Woods, against President Eugene V. Debs, of the American Railway Union. The same finding was reached against the other American Railway Union leaders on trial with Debs. The men were charged with contempt of court, in failing to obey the injunction not to interfere with the running of trains during the Pullman strike

Mr. Debs was sentenced to six months in the county jail. The others on trial were given three months each, except McVane, who was released, because there was no evidence against him. The finding of the court was that the defendants were guilty of contempt, but that any punishment inflicted would not be cumulative. In other words, there were two cases before the Court, one for contempt and the other for violation of the Federal statute, and the latter cause is merged to overflowing when Judge Woods first to overflowing when Judge Woods first entered the court room and took his seat upon the bench. President Debs and other defendants were present, and in various attitudes of anxious interest, listened to the reading of the decision. With Judge Woods Judge Jenkins occupied the bench and many prominent attorneys were present to hear the outcome of the proceedings against the leaders of the great railway strike of last summer.

Judge Woods, after announcing that the defendants were found gullty, as charged said it was not in accordance with procedure in such cases to permit them to say why sentence should not be passed, but in this case, the Court would allow it. Attorney Darrow, representing the defendants, asked that his clients might retire for a consultation, regarding what they should say, and after a brief recess the strike leaders filed back into court, ranging themselves before the bench. Attorney Darrow, speaking for them, said that they had no wish to make separate speeches, but felt that they had done no wrong. The attorney advised the Court that Director McVane, one of the defendants was out of the city during the strike. A lengthy argument between attorneys followed over the proposition to discriminate in McVane's favor which the Court terminated by suspending sentence in his case.

a public nuisance. 'A nuisance is anything that unlawfully worketh hurt, inconvenience or damage.' (3 Blackstone's ommentaries, 216.) 'A public nuisance is such an inconvenience or troublesome offense as annoys the whole community in general and not merely some particular person.' (# Blackstone's comment-

A Supreme Court Decision. The Supreme Court of the United States has spoken on the subject. In the case of the mayor of Georgetown vs. the Alexandria Canal Company, 12 Peters, 91, 98, where an injunction was sought against the obstruction of the navigation of the Potomac river, the Court said: "Besides this remedy at law, it is now settled that a court of equity may take jurisdiction in cases of public nuisance by an information filed by the Attorney-General. Whilst, therefore, it is admitted by all, that it is confessedly one of delicacy, and accordingly, the in-stances where it is exercised are rare. yet it may be exercised in those cases in which there is eminent danger of irreparable mischief before the tardiness of the law can reach it."

But while this jurisdiction of the English high court of chancery, and of the equity courts of the several States of the Union, is not understood to be disputed glish high court of chancery, and of the equity course of the several States of the Union, is not understood to be disputed by counsel for the defendants, they do insist that in the absence of legislation by Congress conferring the authority, the Federal courts can do nothing for the protection of the highways of interstate commerce, whether upon land or water.

"In reply to this position of the defense, reference is made to the act to regulate commerce, as amended by the act of March 2, 1889 (United States statute 855), and it is contended that by force of the provision of the statute, passed in exercise of the power conferred on Congress by the constitution "To regulate commerce among the several States,' the national control has been extended over the channels and agencies of interstate commerce, including railways as well as navigable waters, and that out of this legislation, whatever has been the rule before, has arisen by necessary implication, the jurisdiction of the Federal courts in accordance with the principles of equity to protect that commerce arainst interference or obstruction. of equity to protect that commerce against interference or obstruction.

Property Right In the Mails. "The right of the Federal Government to obtain the injunction is also asserted upon the ground of property right in the mails. That the Nation owns the mail bags is, of course, beyond dispute, and that it pays large sums annually for the carrying of the mails upon the railroads is well understood. In Searight vs. Stokes (3 Howe, 151), where the question was whether vehicles carrying the mails were 'laden with the property of the United States,' and, therefore, exempt from toll on the Cumberland road in Pennsylvania, the Supreme Court said: The United States have unquestionably a property in the mails. They are not mere common carriers, but a Government performing a high official duty in holding and guarding its own property as well as that of its citizens committed to its carry large nortion of the its care, for a very large portion of the letters and packages conveyed on this road, especially during the session of Congress, consists of communications to or from the officers of the Executive De-partment, or members of the Legislature on public service or in relation to mat-

It is said, on the contrary, to be easy "to show that at common law jurisdiction of the chancery, on information of the Attorney-General to restrain a prupresture or nuisance, rests on the idea that the King owns the lands wherein it exists," and it is doubtless true that in the cases where the jurisdiction was invoked the King was the owner of the land, because the land under navigable waters in England has always belonged to the crown; but the object of the suits has always been not to vindicate the title to the land, which could have been done by an action of ejectment, but to prevent or remove the obstructions to navigation, which required the prompt and efficient methods of equity; and it is not to be believed that if in England, as along the fresh water rivers of this country, the title of lands under the waters had belonged to the riparian owners, the same jurisdiction would not have been exercised for the protection of the public right of navigation.

"The public interest is concerned in the tion.

"The public interest is concerned in the unobstructed use of the water, and it is sticking in the mud to say that the right to protect that use is dependent upon the ownership of the underlying soil. If, however, the jurisdiction in such cases must be held to rest upon some legal title or property right, which by fiction shall be deemed to be worthy of equitable protection, or to afford a basis of jurisdiction for protecting incidental rights, it would seem that the property right which the Government has been declared to have in the mails and its unquestioned ownership of the mail-bags might well be deemed sufficient for the purpose. As Justice Brewer said in U. S. vs. W. U. Tel. Co., 50 Fed. Rep. 28, 42), the 'Dollar is not always the test of real interest. It may properly be scorificed if anything of higher value he thereby attained.'

ficed if anything of higher value be thereby attained.

The Issue As To Railroads.

"But' say counsel, 'this whole subject is utterly foreign in the question in this case. 'Waterways are not railways. They are free to all comers, and are not the subject of private ownership or control, but only of municipal regulation by public authority.' (Lake Front case, 146 U. S., 387.) The control of the railway is primarily with the company that owns and operates it. These great interests are entirely able to cope with any interference with their property. If they be held, in a high sense, as trustees of the public, why should equity entertain a suit by the beneficiaries of this trust until the trustees have proved recreant? These, companies own the land over which their lines run, or a right-of-way in perpetuity, and though charked with public duties, are still private, pecuniary, corporations, operated for gain. As to all local matters, viz., the speed of trains, stopping at crossings, elevations of tracks, and things of that character, they are subject to local or State regulation. This could not be were the power of Congress exclusive, as in the matter of interstate rates. (Wabash Railway vs. Illinois, 118 U. S., 557).

"It is, of course, true that waterways are not railways; that the latter and title to the land under them are owned and controlled, under legal limitations, by companies which operate them for gain; but so are the boats which ply the rivers and lakes of the country, and I see no reason in any of the suggestions advanced for saying that the courts may give to commerce on the rivers a protection which they may not extend to commerce on the railways. The railway companies are clothed with the power of eminent domain, to enable them to acquire lands necessary for their purpose, because the proposed use is for the public benefit. To the extent of the share which the companies have in interstate commerce, they hold their lands and rights-of-way for the benefit of the general public and subject to the nationa

Contempt and Crime. "The jurisdiction of the courts of equity, and by implication their right to punish for contempt, are established by the constitution equally with the right of trial by jury, and so long as there is no attempt to extend jurisdiction over subjects not properly cognizable in equity, there can be no ground for the objection that the right of jury trial has been taken away. The same act may constitute a contempt and crime. But the contempt

"Excepting the case of U. S. vs. Pat-terson, I know of no ruling inconsistent with the jurisdiction herein exercised. "In the case of rhelan, who was charged with contempt of the United States Circuit Court at Cincinnali, growing out of the strike of last summer, and clared the combination 'to be in the teeth of the act of July 2, 1890,' and after rulings of other judges, in accord with his own view, said: 'A different view has been taken by Judge Putnam in the case of the U. S. vs. Patterson (55 Fed. Rep. 605), but after consideration Judge Lurof the U.S. vs. Patterson (a) Fed. Rep. 665), but after consideration Judge Lurton and I can not concur with the reasoning of that learned judge. The fact that it was the purpose of Debs, Phelan and their associates to paralyze the interstate commerce of this country, is shown conclusively in this case, and is known of all men. Therefore their combination was for an unlawful purpose and is a conspiracy within the statute cited.

"The facts of this case suggest illustrations of the impropriety, as well as inconsistency, of putting upon the statute the restrictive construction proposed. If, for example, the manufacturers of other sleeping-cars, in their own interest, should enlist the brakemen or switchmen, or other employes of the railroad, either individually or in associated bodies, in a conspiracy to prevent or restrain the use of Pullman sleepers, by refusing to move them by secretly uncoupling, or by other elusive means, the monopolistic character of the conspiracy would be so evident, that even on theory that the statute is aimed at contracts or combinations intended to engross or monopolize the market, it would be conspirated that the offense output to be

gross or monopolize the market, it would be agreed that the offense ought to be publishable. "But if in such a case the officers of agents of the car companies, who might or might not be capitalists, would be in-vidually responsible for violating the statute, upon what principle could the firemen or switchmen be exempt? Can workingmen, or, if you will, poor men whether avowed or secret, do things for bidden by the statute without criminal responsibility and yet be criminally responsible for the same things done at the instance and to promote the purposes of others? or will it be said that under of others? or will it be said that under this statute one who is not a capitalist may without criminality assist capitalists in doing of things which on their part are criminal? If that be so, then if a capitalist and one who is not a capitalist join in doing things forbidden by this statute, neither can be punished, because one alone can not be guilty of conspiracy. "The persistent efforts of the defendants, as the proof shows, was to force the railroad companies—the largest capitalists of the country—to co-operate, or at least acquiesce in a scheme to stop the use of the obnoxious cars, and perhaps, they had the agreement of a manager and other officers of one road to quit the use of the obnoxious cars, and perhaps, a qualified submission of the officers of another road or two, to the same dictation; does the guilt or innocence of the defendants of the charge of conspiracy under this statute depend, on the proof there may be of their design those who may be called capitalists or design these who may be called capitalists or design these who may be called capitalists or design these who n from whatever employment of wal them from whatever employment of walk in life.

"I have not failed, I think, to appreciate the just force of the argument to the contrary of my opinion—it has sometimes entangled me in doubt—but my conclusion is clear that, under the act of 1890, the court has jurisdiction of the case presented in the application and that the injunction granted was not without authority of law nor for any reason invalid.

junction granted was not without author, ity of law nor for any reason invalid.

The Matters of Fact.

"This brings me to the question of fact. Did the defendants violate the injunction? Their conduct is only in question and their admissions are quoted because they confirm the inference deducible from other evidence that no essential and voluntary modification of their course of action either followed or was caused by the injunction. Their original intention, it is true, was only to prevent the use of Pullman cars, but finding, as they did immediately, that that aim would be thwarted by the discharge from service of men who refused to handle those cars, they began, as early as June 21, the day after the boycott was proclaimed, to issue orders to strike, and from that time to the end, to the extent of their ability, they conducted and controlled the strike with persistent consistency of purpose, and with unvarying methods of action.

"As officers of the American Railway Union, it is beyond question that the defendants had practical control of the strike, guiding as they chose the movements of the men actively engaged. Under the conditions of last summer, when there were many idle men seeking employment, it was impossible that a strike which aimed at a general cessation of business upon the railroads of the country could succeed without violence, and it is not to be believed that the defendants entered upon the railroads of the country could succeed without violence, and it is not to be believed that the defendants entered upon the railroads of the country could succeed without violence, and it is not to be believed that the defendants entered upon the secution of their scheme without appreciating the fact, and without having determined how to deal with it. The inference, therefore, is a fair one, aside from direct evidence to the point, that they expected and intended that this strike should differ from others only in magnitude of design and boldness of execution, and that the acothers only in magnitude of design an others only in magnitude of design and boldness of execution, and that the ac-customed accessories of intimidation and violence, so far at least as found essen-tial to success, would not be omitted. For that much, the striking workmen, acting on the promptings of self-interest, without instigation or direct sugges-tion, and even in spite of admenitions to the contrary, may ordinarily be counted on.

Violence During the Strike. "Such admonitions against vio-lence were sent out occasionally by the defendants, but it does not appear that they were ever heeded; and I am able to believe on the evidence that in the fullest sense it was expected or intended that they should be. I am able and quite ready to believe that the defendants not only did not favor, but deprecated extreme violence, which might lead to the de-struction of property, or of human life, but the chief aim, I am convinced, was to that end the warnings against acts of depredation or visible destruction of property, it may well be believed were sincere, but their followers did not understand, and the court can not believe, that it was intended to forbid intimidation, and equally with the right of trial by jury, and so long as there is no attempt to extend jurisdiction over subjects not properly cognizable in equity, there can be no ground for the objection that the right of jury trial has been taken away. The same act may constitute a contempt and crime. But the contempt is one thing, the orime another, and the punishment for one is not a duplication of the punishment of the other. The contempt can be tried and punished only by the court, while the charge of crime can be tried only by a jury.

Judge Woods, referring to the position of the advice. With all that is said of the defendants in respect to the act of July 2, 1890, that it is "directed at capital, and not of force and violence wholly against jurists, and not at organizations of labor in any form," sa.d:

"It is clear that a further and more comprehensive purpose came to be entertained and was embodied in the final form of the enactment. Combinations are condemned, not only when they take the milder forms of violence, which did

The Advice of the Leaders. "It is shown by the testimony of two or more witnesses that on the night of June 29, Debs and Howard and Keliher iressed the men; that on the next day was inaugurated a condition of turbu-ence, which a witness declared he 'did not believe could exist,' and notwithstanding the efforts of the United States Mrashal, by reading the injunction and otherwise, to quell the disturbance, nothing was accomplished until July 5, when the Federal soldiers arrived. These things directly followed, and in large measure, I think it not unwarranted to say, were the natural and probable result of the speeches made and probable result of the speeches made and counsel given to the men by Debs and Howard at the meeting on the night of the 29th at Blue Island. Suggestions calculated to incite to deeds of violence or intimidation were contained in many of the telegrams which were sent out over the name of Debs, and for which, notwithstanding the averment of their answers to the contrary, it is no longer possible for any of the defendants to deny some measure of responsibility.

are instrumentanties of commerce, and a follows that from the time of the announcement of the boycott, the American Rallway Union was committed to a conspiracy in restraints of interstate commerce, in violation of the act of July 2, 1880, and that the officers of that association and all others who induced in the ciation, and all others who joined in the whether intended by him or hot. And officers became responsible for the men, and the men for the officers. The original conspiracy against the use of Puliman cars became a conspiracy against transportation and travel by railroad. Upon their own authority without consulting the local Guilty In Both Cases. "Much has been said, but without proof, of the wrongs of the workmen at Pullman, of an alliance beween the Pullman man, of an alliance beween the Pullman company and the railway managers to depress wages, and generally of corporate oppression and arrogance. But it is evident that these things, however, the facts might have been proved or imagined to be, could furnish neither justification nor palliation for giving up a city to disorder and for paralyzing the industries and commerce of the country. The decision of Judge Caldwell has been referred to, but, while that recognized the right of employes to quit the service of the receivers, it contained no warrant for intimidating or abusing those who were willing to take employment, or for otherwise interfering directly, as the defendants and their followers did, with the management and operation of the road.

The Court, therefore, finds the defendants guilty of contempt, as charged, in each of the cases. The same sentences will be ordered in both cases, but it is not intended that they shall be cumulative.

LOCAL VIEWS ON THE VERDICT.

LOCAL VIEWS ON THE VERDICT. that the masses of the people will hold that there is no warrant in law for the decision arrived at. To my mind, the granting of the injunctions was an outrage and incompatible with the freedom guaranteed to citizens of this republic. The conviction is but the logical results of the action of the courts of last summer. Instead of construing existing law, the Federal judges have made law. And if this is law, the days of railroad labor organizations are at an end, at least so far as having any bearing on regulating the manner of their employment is con-

December 14.—At the meeting of the National Federation of Labor yesterday the committee on resolutions recommended the adoption of Delegate Lloyd's resolution in favor of free coinage of silver. The preamble covers much of the argument of the advecates of free coinage and demands the re-enactment of the law in force before 1873, regardless of the action of any other nation. Treasurer Lennon objected to the preamble because, he said, it assumed that all the trouble in this country was due to the demonstration of silver, and moved to strike out all except the bare declaration for the re-enactment of the law. Mr. Lloyd made a strong speech in favor of his resolution in its entirety. He favored primarily a Government issue of non-metallic money, but believed the restoration of silver.

The Postoffice Department entered and occupied the premises under this lease, paying the rent until May, 1886, when, without assigning any cause, it vacated the premises. The lot and lease passed from the original owner (Montgomery), in 1877, to Hiram W. Chase. After this transfer the Government paid the rent up to the time it vacated the premises to Mr. Chase, and he expended $2,000 in repairs and fixtures for the accommodations of the office. Mr. Chase died three years after the building was vacated, and his wife, as executrix, brought suit in the Circuit Court for the District of Indiana, in October, 1890, after the expiration of twenty years, to recover for the unpaid rent under the contract. The United States District Attorney demurred for two causes:

Judge Woods, by, his action, has added nothing to the estimation of the strike commission of the strike conference. The "sports" expected to see a bruising mill, but after they had paid their money a six-round boxing match was fought. During the performance several disputes led to drawn revolvers, but no shots were fired.

AN INDIANAPOLIS WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE AT RICHMOND.

Shocking Circumstances of the Young Woman's Death-Desperate Act While Despondent-Story of the Affair.

Special to The Indiar apolis News. Richmond, Ind., December 14.-A shock ing suicide occurred in this city this morning. Mrs. Fred Davis shot herself through the heart and died instantly. Mr. and Mrs. Davis lived in Indianapolis for several months, only removing to Richmond a few weeks ago. She was one of the prominent young married women of the city, and was but twentythree years old. For some days she has, apparently, been despondent, and this morning, while her husband was asleep, she arose, placed her baby, who was sleeping in a crib, at her husband's side, and then committed the deed of self-destruction. She left a note, stating despondency as the cause. Mrs. Davis was formerly Miss Maude Rosenbaum.

Fred Davis is in the employ of the Pennsylvania company and for two years lived here. About a month ago he returned to Richmond with his family. His father is Dr. T. Henry Davis, city health officer. When Fred got home last evening he was told that his wife had attempted to kill herself by locking herself in a tightly closed room and turning on the gis. In this she failed. She and her husband talked the affair over and she said that she did not know why she did such a thing; that there was plenty of happiness in store for her, and she never knew what real happiness was till she was over. Davis fell asleep. Then she shot herself, as described in the dispatch. She left a letter, in which she said that she had to commit the deed, why she could not tell, but there was something irresistible driving her to do it. Mrs. Davis was a relative of L. M. Case, /a clerk in a book-store here. The coroner gives the reason of the suicide as melancholy. Those who knew Mr. and Mrs. Davis say they lived happily. formerly Miss Maude Rosenbaum.

of his for $22, drawn in croker's favor were introduced in evidence.

Captain Creedon, of the police force, a man with a fine record of thirty years, denied that he had paid anything for his captaincy. Various witnesses who were said to have subscribed to the alleged fifteen-thousand-dollar testimonial to him, swore that they loaned him money, much of which had been paid back.

Business.

I was afflicted with rheumatism in both feet so badly that I was at times confined to my bed, and was unable to attend to my business. I used every remedy offered, and had some of our best doctors attend me all the time, but found no permanent relief. A friend recommended me to try Perry's Magic Rheumatism Cure. I took two bottles; felt relief the first day, and am now cured sound and well; general health much improved. I can't say too much for it.

Good News Some

For the rich and poor I have glorious news:

I give away groceries with each pair of shoes.

For every one dollar,s worth of shoes that you buy,
You get a dime's worth of groceries, and that is no lie.

For a very small sum I will cover your feet
With shoes that are good, and will always look neat.

Good luck comes to all that enter my door;
Both groceries and shoes I sell at my store.

As unscrupulous parties are using my name,
I warn the public to steer clear of their game—
Two hundred and fifty West Washington street
Is the one correct place for buyers to meet.

The Chime.

There is an old French Alr.
A little song of loneliness and griefSimple as nature, sweet beyond comp
And sad-past all belief.

Nameless is he that wrote clody—but this much I opine: er made the words was some French ancestor of mine.

I know the dungeon deep long he lay—and why he lay therein, his anguish, that he could not sleep For conscience of a sin.

I see his cold, hard bed; he chimes that jingled in his ears, ressed nightly with that wakeful head A pillow wet with tears,

Oh, restless little chime!
ever changed—but rang its roundelay
each dark hour of that unhappy time
That sighed itself away.

Of many a town he loved, for one dear sake. Into its web of music; thus he came His little song to make.

Of all that ever heard And loved it for its sweetness, none but I Divined the clue that, as a hidden word, The notes doth undefile.

And though 'tis mine by right Of treasure-trove, to rife and lay bare-A heritage of sorrow and delight The world would giadly share.

That wail from lips long dead nd its echo in this breast alone! me—by blood remembrance led-is that wild story known!

Yet must I not unfold rmore, nor whisper late nor soon, cret that a few slight bars thus hold Imprisoned in a tune.

THE INCOME TAX.

The House of Representatives yester-day by a vote of 169 to 49 refused to trike out the appropriation for the col-lection of the income tax. We think that its action is clearly right. The tax itself ve regard, at its best, as one of very ul expediency, and in the shap high it has taken in the present law ns to us to be thoroughly bad. But this has nothing to do with the case. The policy of nullifying even a bad law s more dangerous than the law itself, there is no reason whatever why this peropriation should not have been made. they are willing to endure the hardships The new tariff was fairly passed and the involved in this retaliatory policy they me tax is a part of it. Congress is as ch bound by the laws which it flet considerable damage upon American commerce. Would it not be wise for our statesmen to consider the matter from the carry into effect. If it does not like work it can undo it. But the spec- much about treaty violations or about the le of the national legislature discred tting its own acts is never an edifying ne. So the House of Representatives ould not well have done anything else than vote the appropriation. What the Senate will do can hardly be conjectured. But if it does its duty, it will concur in nature of the income tax as embodied in and Representatives than is the business the present tariff. It applies to all in-

All persons having incomes in excess of $3,500 must ns under oath to the collector of internal revenue of the districts wheren they reside. These returns must be each year. The law applies to corporations - except certain benevolent and charitable bodies - as well as individuals. The ssador had protested sinst the duty in question on the nd that it could not be "reconciled ith the most-favored nation clause which governs the economic relations of the two countries," in that it was a sugar. The only result of this foolish provision of the new tariff has been to provoke retaliation, which is proving extremely harmful to our trade. The old restrictions have been revived. American beef and cattle are again being subjected to 'inspection." New prohibitive duties have been levied upon American products, and, in a word, everything is being done to shut our people out of the German market. The people who feel the force of German retaliation will compel the politicians to choose between their interests and the interests of the sugar trust. And when it is understood that the trade of the whole country is less important in the eyes of Senators permanently retired as soon as the people get a chance at them. The New York Medical Journal is used all sorts of horrors that fall within the pale of medical attention, but recent ot-ball games have been too much or its nerves. In an editorial it says: The contest at Springfield between the Yale and Harvard teams was one of the Tale and Harvard teams was one of the most unwholesome performances that ever masqueraded under the name of amateur sport. Players slugged into unconsciousness, eyes nearly gouged out, brains concussed, disabiling sprains, and bruises constantly interrupted the progress of the game, which even an exball-player and friend of the sport declares to have been characterized by "sickening brutality." Besides this we hean of a student made insane through injuries received in playing, and two fatal accidents are reported. The number of young men who are permanently injured and who go through life more of less crippled, in consequence of football playing can never be known. We should be sorry to see foot-ball abolished altogether from our colleges. There is no game that equials it in many ways when played as a manly sport and not for gate receives. But the new rules are when played as a manly sport and not for gate receipts. But the new rules are plainly ineffective, and unless some change can be made, the game really deserves to be placed under the supervision of boards of health working in co-operation with an efficient police.

The board of visitors to West Point directs attention to "the halting English, the lack of facility of expression on the part of many cadets," which is, accordpart of many eadets," which is, according to the official inspectors, "painfully apparent." This is certainly deplorable. A soldier's education, like that of every other professional man, is incomplete unless he has acquired a knowledge of his own language which enables him to use it with precision and fluency. This does not, indeed, apply only to those engaged in the professions, but to every man and not, indeed, apply only to those engaged in the professions, but to every man and woman. All who are lacking in this respect are seriously handicapped in the pursuit of profit and pleasure. The West Point Academy should alter its curriculum if need be to lay more stress upon English. Marlowe's Rosalind.

Though in general much the same personation which she has given here before, Mrs. Taber's Rosalind has now a kind of decisive beauty which makes its appeal stronger and more direct than ever. The poetic atmosphere, probably the most essential element in the portrayal of the character, invested her Rosalind from the first. Her great gain this year is manifest in the love scenes with Orlando. What was heretofore potential in its charm is now positive achievement. Certain vaguenesses have received detinition; lines that were lightly, even at times waveringly, though always truly sketched, have been deepened with no uncertain hand. The character is more completely her own. To the gentle, winning grace, which it has always had, is now added an archness of manner which gives grace, which it has always had, is now added an archness of manner which gives to the forest scenes with Orlando a most piquant and delightful flavor.

Her Rosalind has plenty of sentiment, but is never sentimental. In particular, her action, when the bloody handkerchief is shown to her by Orlando's brother seems to fit in more harmoniously with the trend of the entire scene than before. A certain abruptness which resulted in over-emphasis, previously resulted in over-emphasis, previously noted at this point, no longer breaks th

Lemaitre, the French actor, was always head over heels in debt, despite an enormous salary, and was always kept busy devising means by which he could raise money. While not a summer resort one of his greatest friends was a fellow-boarder, a little girl about eight years old. One evening the little girl remarked to her fellow-diners: "I like going out with Mr. Dodson." "Why?" queried a stranger, hoping to draw the child aut. "Because he has no morals." was the startling reply. When the summer boarders had recovered their equanimity they instituted an investigation, the upshot of which was the discovery that the curly-haired maiden possessed an insatiable craving for stories. Duce Interested In the St. Louis ocrat - Books On Mining-A Number of Inventions-His Varied Career

After a life of contrasts, Henry R. Pomeroy, age seventy, died yesterday at the City Hospital. He was the old inventor whose story was told in The News some time ago. Although he was an object of charity at the time of his death, he had been a personal friend and neighbor of Lincoln, a companion of Grant and an acquaintance of Arthur, He was once part owner of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He spent several years in the mines of the Southwest, writing letters for the Globe-Demograt and for the London Times. He narrowly escaped with his life because of exposures he

Judge Brown Appointed Special nmissioner To Hear Them.

At the law office of Duncan & Smith, to-morrow morning. Judge Brown, of the Circuit Court, acting as special commissioner for the State of New Jersey, will begin by hearing the evidence affecting the case of the State of New Jersey, will begin by hearing the evidence affecting the case of the State of New Jersey against the American Tobacco Company. This is the said instituted by the Attorney-General of New Jersey to annul the charter of the defendam on the ground that it is a 1rust.

The examination here will relate chiefly to the boycott of the company against John Rauch, because of his seiling the manufactured goods of another company. The suit involves the fight that has been waged for over a year between the American Tobacco Company and the National Tobacco Company. The first named is a combination of the big cigarette manufacturers of the country, and manufactures over 30 per cent of the cigarettes consumed. It had a monopoly of this business until the companisation of the National Tobacco Company. The American company begind a coyecte against dealers who resulted National goods. The boycott here are principally against John stauch, and the essamination to be taken to-morrow heater Judge Brown will be to determine the far the boycott was carried on here.

IN THE SUBURBS.

Haughville.

Haughville citizens are disappointed with Judge McCray's action in the Wilhelm case. When Johannes Wilhelm gets drunk he is a "iterror" to the suburban people, and the darkest kinds of deeds are credited to him, although never proved. He has threatened the life of a half dosen people in the suburb. One of them is deputy marshal James Tharp, and the latter openly says that it will be life against life if ever Wilhelm and he come in conflict again. The latte James Goodlet was on Wilhelm's list, and he said in court the other day that he would like to have been able to ride, dressed in red, on a charger, in front of the funeral procession, and that he hoped he would live to do the same thing at the funeral of others whom he mamed. His wife has worked hard and raised money almost numberless times to pay his fines and release him from jail. They are both good gardeners. He was arrested and sent, for lanceny to the penitentiary for a comparatively long period. After fourteen months, Governor Matthews paroled him. He had been an exemplary prisoner, it is said, and was one of the most trusted himsites of the institution. It was not long after his release that he began getting into trouble again, and his wife at last applied to Justice of the Peace Martin to get out papers for an insanity commission upon her husband. Wilhelm was caught in the act of stealing goese last Sunday night. The penalty for petit larceny—second offense—may be as severe as that for grand larceny—fourteen years. The case would come before Judge McCray, who has known Wilhelm for years. Mrs. Wilhelm insisted that that the Court proceed at once with the insanity inquiry. The commission was made up of Drs. Hodges and Cain and 'Squires Martin and Feller. Mrs. Wilhelm told of her husband locking the family out of doors at night, and his taking his little son around with him to the saloons and making the child drink whenever he did. Wilhelm was shet is the Franco-Prussian war, the bulles striking him in the forchead. There is a large depress Haughville.

West Indianapolis.

Chairman Gish, of the Council committee on safety and comfort, West Indianapolis, says: "The strictures of some of our people on the fire slarm system are not fair. It is true that our communication with the water company was cut off on the occasion of the late fire, but this was an extraordinary accident, and the Telephone company was partially responsible for it. Our electrician has not since put back the old wire that he took down, but has put up new wire purchased by the committee. Chief Webster tells us that West Indianapolis has one of the best systems in the country and that our department is a good one. When we get in our new quarters within a few weeks we'll be fixed for anything. We are then to have a double circuit, one for the First and Third wards and the other for the Second ward. If the system gets out of order we can then ascentain where the damage is in much less time than it now takes. We shall also post placards on each box telling how to 'pull' it and where the key is to be had. We are also advising the people to send in an alarm as soon as a fire is discovered and not waste any time waiting to see if it may be extinguished with buckets. Our people can go to sleep at night feeding that we have first-class fire protection, and that in case of fire our boys will be promptly on the scene and do effective work." West Indianapolis.

A new house belonging to Hill Bros., in McLain street, North Indianapolis, was destroyed by fire at 230 o'clock this morning. It was a two-story building, finished in oak, and was worth $2,000. There was no fire in the place, and the flames, it is supposed, were the work of an incandiary. There was no other house closer

The premium sked was somewhat greater than the cost of ordinary marine insurance, but to great was the advantage of the "all-tisks clause" that millers were not slow so great was the advantage of the air-risks clause" that millers were not slow to avail themselves of it. Naturally, in order to protect themselves, the insur-ance people undertook to examine minutely into the methods of handling used by the various railroad and steam-ship lines, and these, in turn, finding that they were held strictly responsible for their mistakes and carelessness, took ss. took t to adopt and enforce rules which Bure them against claims

"Brummagem" Guns.

"Brummagem" Guns.

One reason of the great extension of the British foreign trade is that they cater to the wants of the trade, whatever they are, and conform to the prejudices and customs of their trade, however absurd as these may be. An amusing instance of this may be seen in the museums at Kew Gardens, where, among other specimens, they had samples of guns made at Birmingham for the African trade. These guns must look quite as incongruous to an English gun-maker but, as long as that kind of gun takes in Africa, that is all the Birmingham manufacturer wants to know. wants to know.

Diseased Mexican Cattle. entative Broderick, of Kansas roduced in the House a bill re the McKinley rate of duty of $10 on cattle over one year of age the United States, in place of the present ad valorem rate amounting to $2 a head. Mr. Broderick says that a syndicate was recently formed in the West with the intention of purchasing whead of Mexican cattle and bringing n across the border. "As many of se cattle are diseased," he says, "their sence here can not but result danger-ty to the cattle interests, hence the restoring a ten-dollar rate."

Why They Refuse.

It has developed that one of the chief reasons of the Western roads' refusal to advance rates and abolish the trackage charge is that several of the lines, members of the Western Freight Association, have made contracts with stock shippers at the old rate of 23½c a hundred pounds. These contracts will not run out for several months, and they can not be canceled.

Chicago Daily News Letter Chicago, Ill., December 14.—The weak feeling in the wheat market which prerailed at the close last night, was continued this morning, and the opening prices were 4 to %c lower. Cables were dull and lower, and receipts in the North-west were still larger than last year's. The only support apparent were buyers against puts, and they had little effect. The market continued weak until 58% was reached, catching considerable "stop loss" orders, and after they were "stop loss" orders, and after they were all filled, a reaction set in caused principally by the good clearances from the seaboard, fully 450,000 bushels wheat and flour. New York reported 14 loads taken for export, but their market was weak also. The trading was rather light, with very few features, the market remaining

Special to The Indianapolis News. St. Mary's, Ind., December 14.—The cityof Terre Haute is much disturbed by the attempted murder last night of Mrs. Joseph Montgomery. The would-be assas-sin is supposed to be Isaac Bridges, a disappointed suitor for the hand of Miss Daisy Davis, the beautiful sister of the injured lady. Bridges has frequently im portuned Miss Daisy to marry him, but she declined his addresses. Mrs. Montgomery refused to listen to him, and when she attempted to pass him Bridges grabbed her and tore the bonnet off her head. The woman then started to run, screaming for help, and Bridges leveled his revolver and fired four shots, two bullets entering the fleshy part of Mrs. Montgomery's back, just below the shoulder blade. One of the bullets is supposed to have penetrated her lungs After firing the shots, Bridges ran away The family report that Bridges has been annoying Miss Davis for some weeks, frequently writing notes to her and approaching her on the street, soliciting an interview. The annual banquet day is December 4. The clan had its origin in the celebration of the completion of the Brookville water-works. A number of gentlemen were canvassing the advisability of organizing for the celebration, and Herman Trichles, who had been prominent in the organiza-tion of the Order of Cincinnatus, suggested something similar. The idea neeting with approval, it was acted upon. Not liking to pattern after some-

It is a body of Gevernment land, laying between the White and Wabash rivers and comprises about 1,800 acres of well-timbered land, not a stick of which has ever been cut. Mr. Leonard a few months ago purchased all the standing timber, which consists of red oak, ash, gum sycamore, and other valuable kinds. A spur from the Evansville & Terre Haute railroad has been built from Deck-ers, six miles out into the swamp. Mr. Leonard is now putting in one of the finest saw-mills in southern Indiana, lumber, to any mill in the State. It will take a long time for the mill to finish this growth of timber. METZGÉR NOT LIABLE. Supreme Court's Decision In the Minnesota Land Case.

The Supreme Court this afternoon decided the appeal of William G. § etzger, of Logansport, and William W. Huntington, of Minnesota, involving a large sum of money. Metzger bought land near Lake Minnetonka, subject to mortgage, paying only a small amount of the purchase price. His speculation did not prove successful, and, after losing $17,000, Metzger determined to let the mortgage be foreclosed. Then he was informed that there was an "assumption clause" in the deed, holding him personally responsible for the debt. He claimed that he knew nothing of the clause. The Supreme Court decided that Metzger is not liable personally for the money. The case involved $25,000.

Heat and Ventilation.

The superintendent of the Lebahon cols, James R. Hart, took the visitors rediately to the basement to look at heating and ventilating apparatus, are are four furnaces in the basement, in heating two of the school-rooms, such furnace is a large conduit, which aits a great volume of air from the side through a screened opening in basement wall. The air goes through conduit past the furnace and up a neg-like shaft to the rooms above, where it is hot or cold when it has the school-room is a thing denined by the placing of valves. All air coming in can be made to pass—the furnace and be heated, or it all be passed under the furnace and it he school-room cold. The valves also be set so as to heat part of air and scave part unheated, and secure any temperature that may leafred. The volume of air coming the room is, however, always the so. In each room there is a crank, by the teacher can control the valves regulate the temperature of the air, she can not shut off or decrease the set.

The entrance of the air into each school

In the or, and immediately below this enunce piace, is another opening of the me size, through which the air escapes on the room. This opening resembles not air register in outward appearance, it, instead of welling up a current of tair, it sucks down a stream of partly oled air. To show its suction, Mr. Gossopped a handkerchief over the grating, defended the openings. The theory is that a air comes into the room through the ening in the side of the wall, rises to a ceiling, and spreads out, tradually ils and then returns along the floor, caping at the floor opening, after maker a complete circuit of the room. The nee of entrance and exit are put near either so as to parmit this complishe cuit.

The moke became too much diffusesed to be visible as it sank, but its course was marked by a progressive coughing among the pupils along the return line and its exit was made evident by a strong oder over the opening in the floor. The air after sinking through the floor spening, passes down a shaft till it once more reaches the basement, and then it makes its became upward through a tall tack high into the outside air. Mr. Goss spoke of the hight of the stack and the presence of a constant fire at the bottom of it as especially good and essential estures in producing a suction to draw out air out of the rooms.

The visitors asked the teachers of the lifterent rooms about the working of the heating ventilation system. They ill spoke well of it. Superintendent Hart aid it worked well, except that once in a while, when the direction of the wind tept a full current of air from entering he basement openings, it was necessary to ventilate by means of the windows. Therwise, he said, the process of ventilation goes on, with closed doors and windows.

Goss did not speak of the heating ventilation system at the Lebanon of building as especially new or rare, one that could not be improved. He spoke with disgust ndianapolis buildings whose rooms ventiliated by opening windows and ting draughts.

Mr. Busse's Views

Mr. Russe's Views.

"Indianapolis has the reputation of having the best school system and the best school teachers in the country," remarked Mr. Russe, "but, at the same time, she has the reputation of having the worst school buildings. Such places as Lebanon, Muncie and Anderson have better ones. I am in favor of looking after the health of the children. When a man is sick he is willing to spend his last dollar to get well again. Nothing is more valuable than health, and I think we ought to look out for it more in the schools. Pupils now sit in rooms where it is hoteney the stove and cold in the chools. Pupils now sit in rooms where is not near the stove and cold in the ther parts of the room, and where there are draughts from the windows. On wet mays they come in with damp feet or tamp clothes, and have no way to dry hemselves. I think we ought to provide or all these things.

The cost of the Lebanon building as now stands was $18,745.39. The School soard thought so well of the contractor, sorge W. Isusby, that they named it is flushy Building. Mr. Busby said he out $700 on the work. At present the assement of the building is only partly emented, and the atto, though it is sed as a chapet, is unplastered. To omplete the basement and attic would, requirer W. O. Darnall sof the Lebanon chool Board, estimates, cost about 2,000.

and more lasting than the painted boards of Indianapolis.
Superintendent Hart, of Lebanon, took the visitors to the attic chapel of the building. It is a well-lighted room that will seat about five hundred pupils. The birth school pupils use part of the Busby Building, and about a hundred of these came up and entertained the visitors with a song. Mr. Hart made a little speech, speaking of the hunor done to Lebanon in the visit of the Indianapolis school representatives to see the building. Mr. Goss was called on for a speech and Mr. Vonnegut also made a few remarks. After another song the school marched out. Mr. Russe remarked on the advantage of such assembly rooms in school buildings.

A MYSTERIOUS CLAIMANT.

She Wants a Part of the King Estate -Her Identity Unknown.

Washington Special Chicago Record.
The deepest curiosity of Washington so-lety is aroused by come mysterious pro-ceedings in a will case now before the millionaire by the name of King died intestate. He was the father of Clarence King, the famous geologist and mining expert, and the late David King, of Washington, who was commissioner to the late Paris exposition, and died about a year ago. The estate is now being settled, and there are several millions to divide. Everything was going along pleasantly until Judge Jeremiah M. Wilson, of this city, appeared in court in behalf of a mysterious client, whom he has so far declined to produce and whose real name he refuses to disclose. It is very evident from the evidence that the late Mr. King had a natural daughter to whom he had always given a liberal allowance, but who is personally unknown to the members of the family. She demands her share of the estate, and Mr. Wilson is her attorney. He argues that it is unnecessary to disclose the present name of his client, for the reason that her existence and her claims are fully established, and that it would simply cause indescribable distress to both her family and that of the late Mr. King if her identity were known.

From this it is inferred that the claimant is a lady of high social position and not unknown to the King family, although they have never suspected her lett-handed relationship to them. But their atorney has insisted that Mr. Wilson's client shall appear in person, and the Court has taken the case under advisement. It is suggested that the character and position of the unknown lady will induce her to abandon her claims to a share of the estate rather than cohfess her ancestry, but several hundred thousand dollars are at Stake.

Senator Voorliess has flopped back to the side of the free silver men. This is not surprising. Everyhody Rnew that he was not sincre when he made a speech advocating the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law at the extra session of the present Gongress. He was only playing the part of a cuckoo then. Now he is appealing for re-election to the Senate from Indiana.—Cleveland Leader (Rep.).

Senator Voorhees has returned to the advocacy of free silver. When President Cleveland made him the representative of the administration in the Senate, and the Senator thought his chances for re-election might be improved thereby, he abandoned his convictions and cooperated with the gold monometallists. The enthusiasm and energy with which Indiana chose a Legislature which will effect a Republican successor to Voorhees ought to be a lesson to politicians who sell their convictions for a mess of patronage.—Chicago Times (Dem.).

No man blows hot and cold with more ease than Senator Voorhees, of Indiana. From being one of the most aggressive advocates of the free coinage of silver, he became the administration spokesman in the fight for the repair of the Sherman coinage law. Then he could not praise the administration too extravagantly for his own purpose. The President was wise, patriotic and a great statesman. To read the Voorhees suboles delivered at the time was to lay one's self open to the argumnt that the President was little less than a demigod. But Mr. Voorhees is singing a different sort of a sone now.—Fhiladelphia Inquirer (Rep.).

By the time the waves rolled over the table you would cease to wonder why people who live in ill-ventilated houses are almost always sick, particularly in cold weather, when doors and windows are shut.

fatigue after exertion and falling, capricious appetite are among the evidences that bad air has weakened the system. So far, no clearly marked disease has appeared, but the body is at the mercy of the first attack, as a crippled ship is helpless in a storm.
A stimulant of irrepreachable quality will set things right, as all who have used Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey know to their joy. They find in it a means of quickening the torpid blood, as sisting digestion, allaying any nervous irrita-tion, and so stirring the shergies of the body as to turn aside the consequences of chill and sudden exposure.

of materials, and at every stage of manufac-ure. Duffy's Mait is distinguished from other whiskey by its medicinal virtues and by the burity that has suggested a comparison between t and the limpid water of a mountain spring.

BOONE COUNTY'S CHARGES

Judge Neal Considers All the Allow ances Reasonable - Appointment of the Prosecutor's Son-What the County Clerk Says.

Special to The Indianapolis News. Lebanon, Ind., December 14.-Boone nty's charges for the trial of Charles Robb for murder, on a change of venue from Marion county, have been the subject of much comment in Lebanon, since The News called attention to them. Judge Neal, who allowed the bill, is a man whose tall form is bent with the weight of some seventy years. He has a thin, smooth-shaven face, with a hooked and in his souch hat and long has the appearance of the traditional judge of early Indiana days. He is easily approachable. Some of the items of the bill criticised in Marion county were the allowance of $600 to Hanna & Bradwell, attorneys for the defendant; $300 to W. A. Dutch, assistant attorney for the State and $277 for ant attorney for the State, and $277 for idigent witnesses.

"The facts are," said Judge Neal, "that the allowances are as reasonable as could be expected, under the circumstances. P. H. Dutch, the prosecutor, was very busy and had to have assistance. Nearly all the witnesses were in-ance. Nearly all the witnesses were indigent, and this made a great expense in supporting them. The allowances were nearly all made upon sworn statements. The attorneys' fees were reasonable, considering the number of witnesses and the amount of labor."

Three riding bailiffs at $2.50 a day, and one court bailiff at $1.50 for a day; each for six days, and a special bailiff at $1.50 for one day, were employed. The Judge was asked if that was not an unusual number of bailiffs for such a trail. He said it was not. The special bailiff for one day, he said, was employed to keep order in the court room, for the witnesses were unusually turbulent. Questions of detail, he said, would be answered by the clerk.

The Prosecutor's Son. P. H. Dutch, the prosecutor, was asked about the allowance of $300 to W. A.

Dutch in the case. "W. A. Dutch is my son," he said, "and was not deputy prosecutor, and never was except when appointed specially. He has never been my law partner, and he belongs to a different firm of attorneys. I received no part of the allowance made Webstern and rot and rot are cent for the W. A. Dutch, and not one cent for the work I did in the case. The allowance made to W. A. Dutch was divided with his law partner. I was at the time of the preparation of the Robb cases engaged in the trial of State cases, and a number were set that had not been tried. It was impossible for me, being engaged in trials every day, and also having a grand trials every day, and also having a grand jury in session, to prepare the Robb case without assistance. Judge Neal, knowing these facts, on his own motion, appointed my son, who was most convenient, to assist in the prosecution. Great care was taken in securing the affidavits of indigent witnesses. They were colored people, and it was difficult to get boarding places for them. Then, owing to the sickness of one witness, it was necessary to adjourn and witness, it was necessary to adjourn and take her deposition, and then, also, Sun-day intervened." ay intervened.

The court's minutes appointing W. A. utch deputy prosecutor say that the ppointment was made "upon the rejuest of the State's attorney."

What the County Clerk Says. What the County Clerk Says.

"As far as this office is concerned," said C. W. Scott, county clerk, in talking about the bill, "I wish Marion county and other counties would stop sanding cases here. This office does not make anything by them." He added, with a smile, "It's the other fellows that get the good out of them." He would not, however, criticise the allowances made to others. He was asked whether W. A. Dutch was one of the "others" getting the good.

"Well," he said, "if Hanna and Brad "Well." he said, "It Hanna and Brad-well's services were worth $800. I think Dutch's were worth $300. One thing Marion county might reasonably object to is the large amount for indigent wit-nesses. But those who got the allow-ances made affidavit that they were un-able to pay their traveling and board expenses, and the only thing that could be done was to make the allowances. he done was to make the allowances. They nearly all looked shabby and poor Some who could not make the affidayli received no allowance."

At the clerk's office it was explained that the charge of $312 for "jury in trial" was, as had been conjectured, for seven nights and six days, at the rate of $2 for each day and each night. This charge for twelve men would actually make $312. It was always the rule in murder and felony cases in Boone county, it was explained, to keep the jury in constant session, both day and night, and to allow pay for the night. The sheriff's charge of $26 for staying with the jury at night, in addition to his $12 per diem, was objected to by the Marion county auditor, and was droped from the bill, but the county will be requested to pay it. The sheriff's charge of $18 for blankets and $9 for pillows was also dropped. "I don't see why Boone county should pay for blankets and pillows in a Marion county case," said Clerk Scott, "but then I suppose they can be carefully stowed away and used again."

Among the items for witnesses were a claim made by Lon Cox, a colored man, for $15 meals and forty-two lodgings of $1.75; a charge of $1.25 by Pete Brannon for five meals, and a charge of $12 by C. D. Goukey for forty meals and four lodgings.

The itemical statement seent to Marion. Jury Expenses.

Some of the Items.

The itemized statment sent to Marion county shows that besides $300 paid to W. A. Dutch, allowances were made to W. A. Dutch, allowances were made to P. H. Dutch, of $20 for the payment of N. D. Carter, a stenographer. $490 for "traveling expense procuring witnesses," and $21.25 for "money advanced on five trips to Indianapolis, hotel and car fare." The pay of the stenographer for Mr. Dutch was in addition to the pay of Lelia A. Higgins, the court stenographer, of $30 for aix days reporting, $4.10 for taking a deposition, $12.60 fou a transcript for the use of attorneys in argument, $1.05 for "exceptions, type-written," $1.3.50 for a "transcript of argument," making $61.55. There is also a charge of $111.90 for a "transcript to Supreme Court."

THE FURY OF THE SEA.

Light House Off the Pacific Coast Badly Demolished.

Astoria, Ore. December 14.—The light-house tender Columbins has returned from a trip to Tillamook Rock to investigate the damage to the light from the recent hurricane. The sea was too rough to approach within speaking distance of the rock, and the chief keeper sent his the rock, and the chief keeper sent his report to the steamer in a bottle. The report states the hurricane was the worst ever experienced on the coast. Mountains of water dashed against the rock on which the light stands, carrying away the top of an adjoining rock. Great waves leaped over the high walls, spending their force on the building, which trembled and rocked as if about to fall into the raging sea below. A crash of glass told the damage caused by the waves, and fragments of rocks were torn loose from their foundation and hurled against the outer glass, which protected the costly lenses. The panes were all broken, the lenses ruined and the clock machinery revolving the light rendered useless.

rective of the wind and waves can be appreciated from the breaking of the lights 136 feet above high water. A monster rock, weighing perhaps a ton, was hurled upward by the waves nearly 100 feet, and coming down, crashed through the root of the living rooms, everything movable being warhed away. At one stage of the storm the water was six feet deep in the Siren room and four feet in the living rooms, which are eighty-eight feet above high water. Supplies were washed away or destroyed and the tanks flooded with salt water.
